

bills where fees were adjusted because the appropriations that the agencies were requesting was beginning to run out and in the case of the Electrical Board based at their current level of appropriations without any appreciable increase or expansion would be depleted by '80-'81, '81-'82 fiscal year so it was the cause for the introduction of the bill. What the committee amendments do is strike Section 1 entirely from the bill which set a fee for an electrical inspector for $25 and it is stricken entirely so there will be no classification for that. The reason for that amendment, I believe it does require enabling legislation to establish such a fee position or license position and there is no point in setting the fee until such time that that position is available. The other portion of the committee amendment strikes the provision for some mileage reference in here where the agency is requested to come out and do an inspection by the owner and to make that mileage consistent with whatever the mileage is for the section covering all of state government rather than putting in the specific amount and the other amendment on page four, clarifies that any fee that is charged for an inspection by this agency in case of a fire is only done when there is a voluntary request by the owner of the building to come out and look at a fire and occasionally they are asked to view, give their opinions as to cause of fire if it is related to an electrical cause. So I move adoption of the committee amendments.
